Questions 2-6: Read the text below and answer the questions that follow.

The students at Central Preparatory School have a special feeling about their new school building.

“I think it is the best-looking school I have ever seen,” a student named Abdullah said about the new building. Others agreed.

“I am proud to go to school here,” a student named Farouq commented. “It looks wonderful.”

It’s not the shape or the size of the building that has the students excited but the large, new painting on the front wall. Architect Yasir Ali Bin Ali and school principal Majid Al-Ansari came up with the idea together.

“I wanted to give the building a mural,” Mr. Ali Bin Ali explained. “I thought the students might enjoy designing and painting it themselves.”

Principal Al-Ansari agreed and organized a contest for the students to design the mural.

A seventh-grade student named Hassan had the winning idea. His design shows a beautiful green oasis, with palm trees and a sparkling blue stream. The students all helped to paint the design on the wall.
