

Ever Wondered

Al Zubara Castle is a Qatari national landmark. Situated in the north-west of the country, it was built in 1938, during the era of Sheikh Abdullah bin Jassim Al Thani. The castle was designed to monitor and defend the west coast of Qatar. More information about this historical castle and others can be obtained through research, an exciting and rewarding way to find out more about a topic of interest. Qatar's Supreme Education Council is rising to the challenges of the 21st Century, in a highly-competitive, interconnected global society, by seeking to stimulate the minds of tomorrow. The council is actively fostering a culture of research and exploration, so that students learn to verify newly-acquired information - and how to satisfy a thirst for more. For more information on Research, check the website of the Supreme Education Council: <http://www.english.education.gov.qa/content/general/detail/5806>

In the Beginning There was Research
Research Skills Development Unit Awareness Program For Encouraging Research in the Qatari Society